

UNIVERSITY HONORS AND LEADERSHIP (UNHL)

UNHL 1100 - The Life of the Mind (3 Credits)

The UNHL program was developed with the goal of creating academics with leadership skills to communicate their ideas and strong leaders with the ability to think critically, analyze issues from alternate perspectives and develop and communicate plausible solutions that take into consideration all points of view; the ideal end result of the program would be intelligent, ethical leaders and scholars in multiple fields of endeavor. The three areas around which the course will revolve are: a) Oil, b) Robots, c) Penicillin. Each of these topics allows multiple facets of a university education in the old sense to be explored from philosophy, history and art to chemistry, physics and engineering. There will be multiple means of exploration for each of these topics, from lectures and in-class discussions to field trips and engagement activities; there will be writing assignments in every phase that will focus on writing skills and writing for different audiences. UNHL 3504 - Representation and Transformation in Young Adult Fiction and Pop Culture (3 Credits)

Popular culture is transformative, and the stories you read and see when young can profoundly impact a reader's view of the world around them. At its best, Young Adult (YA) books and media challenge, enlighten, and inform the reader while simultaneously entertaining and engaging them. At its worst, YA literature and media reinforce stereotypes or ignore some groups entirely. This course will explore the transformation in how books and pop culture for young adults have been written and produced over the last 60 years. We will examine changing representations of characters, particularly around race, ethnicity, gender, class, and sexuality, how the problems these characters face have come to more realistically reflect the lived experiences of the readers, viewers, and consumers, and how changes in society have driven this transformation in YA books and media. Restriction: Restricted to students in the University Honors and Leaders Program (UNHL or UHLT). \ Max hours: 3 Credits.
